ABOUT IXAIR

Created in 2000, IXAIR started out as a helicopter company but has gradually turned its attention to business aviation. Today, its main activity is the commercial operation of aircraft for the public transport of passengers, as well as the management and operation of private aircraft.

A French business aviation airline based at Paris-le-Bourget airport for almost a quarter of a century, IXAIR stands out from its competitors through its dynamism, innovation and ambitions.

IXAIR is one of the last private aviation companies to put French know-how at the heart of its offering, in terms of both services and performance.

Creative for over twenty years and at the origin of numerous innovations in access to private aviation in France, IXAIR has been able to distinguish itself from its European competitors by its ability to direct its offers in perfect harmony with market trends in its sector of activity.

Operating short, medium and long-haul jets, the company provides all types of travel in France and throughout the world.

It relies not only on a fleet of aircraft dedicated to passenger transport, but above all on a team of committed and passionate professionals offering tailor-made solutions for the success of its customers' trips or for the acquisition, management and resale of aircraft.

On the strength of its experience, IXAIR has joined forces with HVM to offer its partners and customers a tailor-made air transport service, whatever their point of departure for the Circuit Paul Ricard in Le Castellet.
